Drug banners were placed in the center of Almaty, reports Tengrinews.kz.

Moreover, people who have hung banners also organize a contest where they play iPhone and other nice things. The condition of the contest is to be photographed with a banner, to post it at home, to mark friends and so on. That is, as usual. Only this contest is not from a fitness center, but from drug dealers. By the way, they give you 1000 rubles for registration, which you spend on the first purchase on this site. It's a great way to get your kids in, isn't it? - According to the author of the post.

In addition, according to her, such advertisements appear on banners in Nur-Sultan, Karaganda, Shymkent, Ust-Kamenogorsk, as well as in Uzbekistan and Kyrgyzstan. In Almaty, they were hanging on several central streets.

"The company, for which everything is registered, is located in Russia and has been working quietly since 2005," concludes the resident of Almaty.

The Department of Urban Planning and Planning of Almaty informed that in the initial sketch of advertising a QR code was linked to the site, where there was no prohibited information.
