SAUDI ARABIA

01.09.2022 Saudi authorities have confiscated 47 million amphetamine pills that were hidden in a shipment of flour in what is described as the largest single drug smuggling attempt in terms of drugs seized. The pills were confiscated in a warehouse after arriving through the dry port of the capital Riyadh, the Saudi interior ministry said in a statement on Wednesday.

Eight people were arrested on suspicion of drug smuggling, according to a spokesman for the General Directorate of Narcotics Control (GDNC).

The ministry said the seizure was the largest single drug smuggling attempt in terms of drugs seized. The Saudi GDNC traced the shipment and ransacked the warehouse, arresting six Syrian nationals and two Pakistani nationals on suspicion of drug smuggling. The GDNC did not name the seized drug or where it came from.

Authorities arrested eight people on suspicion of drug smuggling. The United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) has previously stated that "reports of amphetamine seizures from countries in the Middle East continue to be predominantly for pills bearing the Captagon logo."
